

Buford The Gentle Buzzard of Rokeby Lock

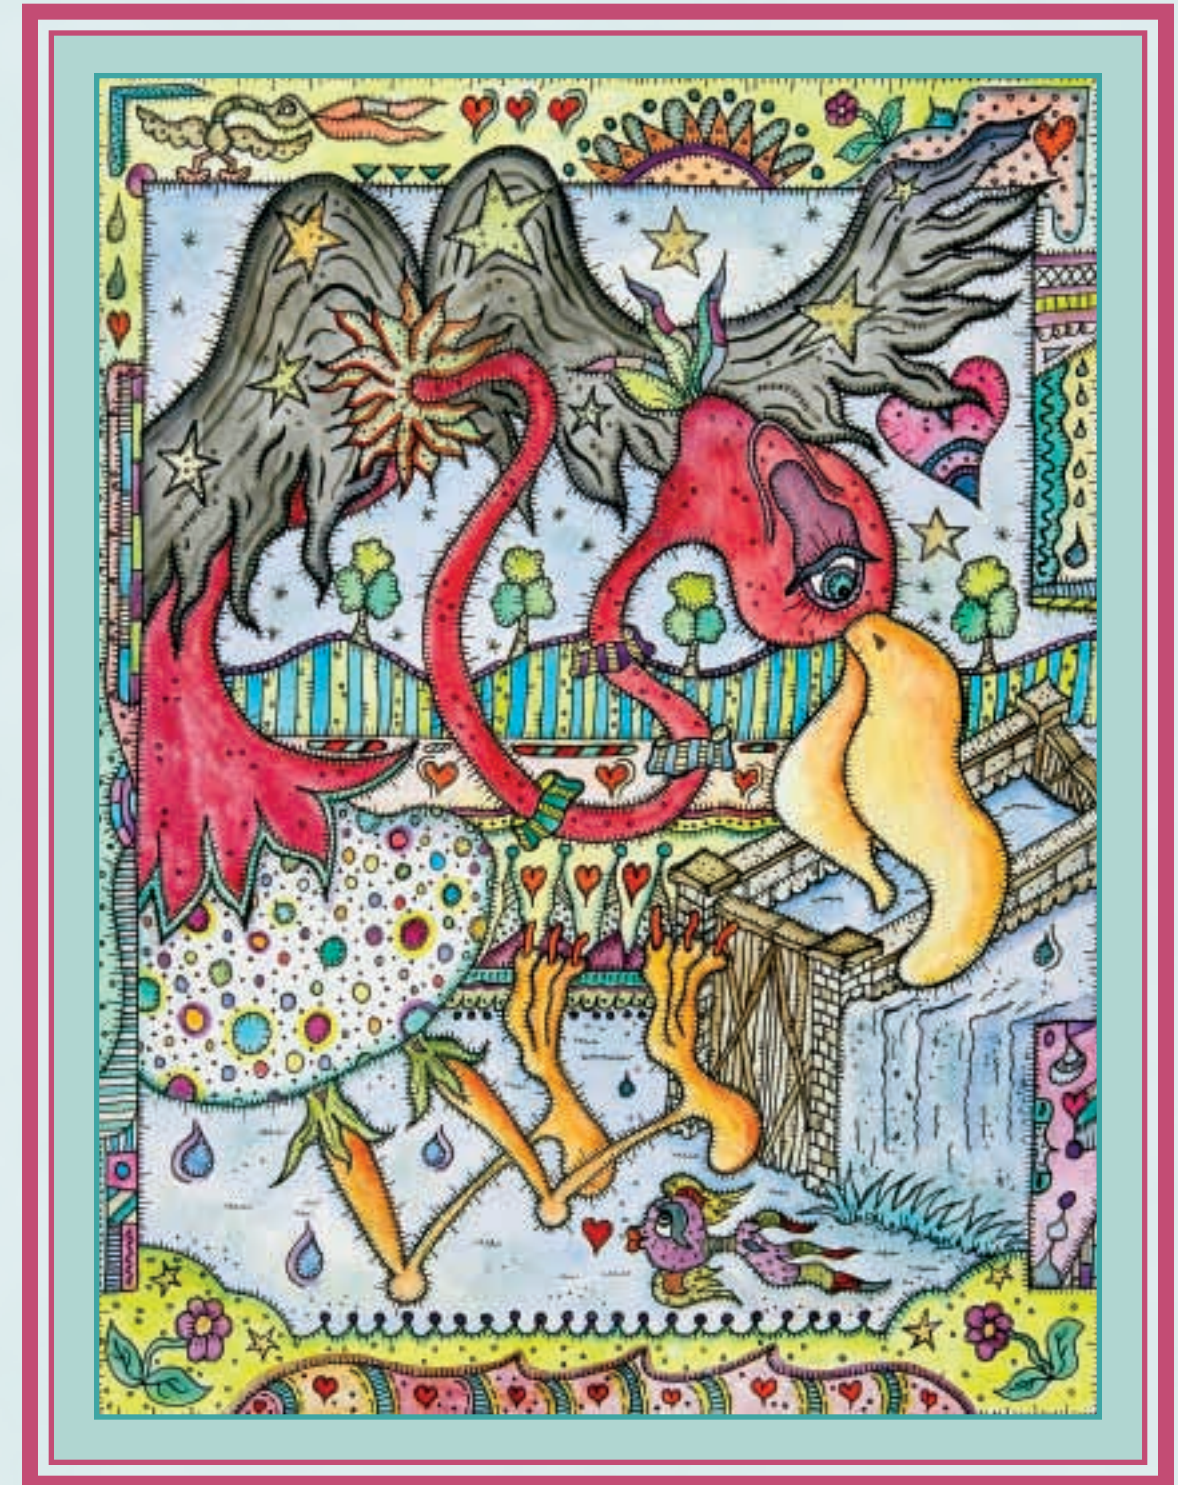

In Eastern Ohio, stretching for over 100 miles, is a still utilized, 180 year old, hand operated river lock system! Our story describes how a friendly buzzard that lives in the trees overlooking one such lock helps a fish family of three up to, into, through and over one such lock.

Included with the illustrations are photographs similar to "A Lowcountry Tale Concerning Wal-de-Mar Wiggins" plus a brief description of how these locks actually work.
